SOME DEAD PERSONS IN CHENA

Among the innumerable dead in the hills of Chena, San Bernado, Province of Santiago, were old workers, such as Manuel Gonzales, one of eleven persons from the workshops of San Bernado who were shot. Gonzales left seven children. Others were young men, just starting out in life, such as Eugenio Viera Cvalle, 20, a student of electrical engineering, who was beaten to death. His body showed a broken spine. Another was Hector Fernandez Garces, a sixteen year old student, whose body, riddled with machine gun bullets, was found by accident in the morgue by friends looking for yet another detained- and missing- person.
